communicated to me the designs of colonel Burr, informing me that he had received several letters from colonel Burr, through one of his agents (Mr. Swartwout) and that Burr's principal attack would be upon Natchez; I was never more astonished, not having heard that any suspicions were entertained against him; I informed the general the situation in which I had found Mr. Swartwout on my arrival, and request ed leave to arrest him. The general re fused, saying, that he expected to get much more out of him, that he had held out to Swartwout the idea of not opposing col B. that he should assemble his whole force at New Orleans, to enable him to defend that place and defeat the whole plan.
I was directed to continue my civilities as before, for fear that Mr. Swartwout might get alarmed at the movement of the troops and military stores. On the 19th I received orders to proceed with my com mand to Natchez, with instructions to take the necessary measures to ascertain the approach of a body of armed men from the Ohio country and to give the general the earliest information by express, of every movement from that quarter, either at Natchez or by sending a confidential party up the river above the Yazoo, in the dis guise of hunters, and I according commu nicated every information I could. About the last of December I saw two letters, one from the post-master of Nashville, to Henry Turner of Natchez, dated the 18th of December stating that col. Burr was then in Nashville, and that he meant to proceed on the 20th to the mouth of Cum berland, where report said he would have assembled from five to eight thousand men, and that it was generally believed that he intended a visit to Mexico. The other letter to a Mr. Wood from Nash ville, spoke of col. Burr's being in Nash ville, that two of his proxies had left town that morning for Orleans by land; from the best of my recollection the above statement of the letters to Turner & Wood is correct, and col. Burr's arrival very fully expected by all persons at Natchez.
For my own part I did not doubt it, and considering this information as all import ant to the general, I proceeded for Or leans, arrived there on the 2nd January, and communicated it to him. Soon after this information was corroborated by the arrival of Bradford, the printer of the Ga zette Orleans.

MAY 15th, '07.
You well know how much has been said and insinuated about the memorable cypher letters, handed you by Swartwout, and of the means by which you unlocked the cypher, and although this circumstance has never been explained by yourself or the administration, and has been seized upon by your enemies as matter for crimination and ground for suspi cion, yet I have never been at a loss, in my own mind for the satisfactory explanation.
You may not perhaps recollect, that in the year 1794, when I left the Western Country, (Army) that you requested me to interchange with you a cypher for the purpose of cor responding thereby; and at the time you infor med me that you had practised that method with many of your friends; this circumstance coming to my recollection, I have examined amongst my old papers and found the cypher, which is at your service, if it, and the circum stances connected therewith can in any way clarify you. Pray snatch one moment, if possible, and let your friends here know how you feel; are situated, &c. &c. Your fa therly friend, Mr. J. Johnson, all came safely to LONDON, September 7.

"COURIER" REMARKS.

The Gazette of Saturday contains Lord Cathcart's Journal of operations from the 14th to the 21st ult. It sufficiently proves that up to that date no serious resistance had been made to our troops; and that all the gloomy reports which had been circulated with such industry were unfounded. It will shew also that hostilities have been carried on with all possible humanity; that the severest discipline had been preserved, and that not one act had been calculated to aggravate the feelings of the Danes against us. The members of the royal family were suffered to withdraw, and the king's property was allowed to be conveyed to his majesty's present place of residence at Colding. Our works were not completed when Lord Cathcart's dispatches were sent off. His lordship however had availed himself of the opportunity afforded him by the demand of a passport for prince Frederick Ferdinand, to accompany the grant of a passport with a note, that no more would be granted, and with a strong recommendation to the commanding general to consider the dreadful consequences of making a capital city of such extent, stand a siege and bombardment like an ordinary fortress. The answer returned by the commander, is not given; but it is of course to be supposed that it contained a refusal.

Whilst we are waiting the result of our operations, the late ministers are endeavoring to divert our anxiety by a long lecture upon the law of nations, in order to shew us the injustice and wickedness of our conduct towards Denmark. With all imaginable gratitude to them for attempting to enlighten our understandings, we must remark, that they seem always to reserve these lectures for events in which this country is more immediately concerned. When Bonaparte makes a sweeping attempt against any power, in which the laws of God and man are equally defied and violated, we hear then something, in no very reproving strain, of his taking counsel from his generals rather than his chancellor; his guilt is censured with sufficient gentleness, whilst his promptitude, decision, and energy receive all due commendation and are happily contrasted with the imbecility and want of foresight of his antagonists.

They ask us whether it is certain that Bonaparte would get the Danish fleet if we did not take it? With all due deference, we deny that it is incumbent to prove that certainty. We have seen in a former war that Denmark has not been inclined, particularly in the time of our difficulty and peril, to take part against us in concert with, and at the instigation of Russia and France. A state of greater peril and difficulty, has arrived, the power of our enemy being so much increased. That enemy has made peace with Russia and converted her into a friend. He has threatened to produce the same confederacy which took place in the year 1801—that Denmark shall shut the Sound—that her means shall be directed against us? Could he force her to take part against us? This is denied—it is denied that his threat of depriving her of Holstein could have done it; and it is insinuated that if he had overrun Holstein, the loss of Holstein would only have been temporary.

On what grounds is it supposed that, if Denmark, had refused to enter into his system, he would have merely taken temporary possession of Holstein, Schleswig, and Jutland? His menace would have been to sever those provinces eternally from Denmark, and to give them to one of his family or generals, and when we consider that they are the most valuable part of the Danish territories, it is not a very strained supposition that Denmark would have risked even a war with England, rather than have incurred the certain loss of so large a portion of her dominions. But we are told that "any time Bonaparte could have seized Holstein, but he has not done it; nor did he even complain of the Danes last November, for defending their frontiers and killing some of the troops belonging to Bernadotte's army, when they came on Danish ground." Is there no difference, we ask, between his situation last November and now? Was it his object to increase the number of his enemies at that time, when his whole force almost was in Poland? There is another point too which these ministers seem to have forgotten. The menace of seizing Holstein was not the only weapon that Bonaparte possessed to force Denmark to join him. He possessed also another weapon, the influence of Russia—Russia, it is sufficiently clear, would have backed and seconded any representations he might have made to the Danish court; and thus Denmark would have had two formidable engines employed against her at the same time; the menace of sending an army already on her frontiers to seize her best provinces, and the power and influence of Russia acting in concert with France.

Another view has been taken of the expedition. It has been asked, whether "had Denmark joined France with all her military marie, this country must have been undone if the Danish fleet had joined the French. Undone we should not have been had the fleets of Denmark, Russia, Turkey, and even the cock-boat squadron of America joined France, Holland and Spain against us."

That our expedition has rendered peace more difficult, we very much doubt—our vigor, promptitude, and decision, were not calculated, we should have thought, to have sharpened Bonaparte's inclination to continue the war—and we confess we should rather have imagined that it would have been less easy to have made peace with honor, had we waited, with Vattel in our hand, till Bonaparte had roused the north against us, and had joined the Russian and Danish fleets in the Baltic; and the Russian and Turkish fleets in the Archipelago. But the late ministers are always talking as if it were so easy to make peace, and as if the present ministers were the determined enemies of peace. If peace be so easy to make why did they not make it themselves? They found they could not make peace, though Prussia had not then been subdued, and Russia had not made peace with the enemy? But there seems to be a strong disposition on the part of their predecessors to blame them because they have thought that the best means of terminating the war with honor is to carry it on with vigor.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 24.

The schooner Eliza and schooner Betsey and Charlotte, of this port, have arrived at Barbadoes.—Price of flour at Barbadoes ten dollars and a half per barrel.

MR. SNOWDEN,

IN order to prevent the President from any mistakes in forming his speech to Congress, the redoubtable col. Duane, emperor of the Tammanies and of all the other Jacobinical Associations of Pennsylvania, &c. &c. has issued his Imperial Mandate, prefaced in the following modest terms, viz.

"Congress assembles on Monday next—
"Among the many important measures to be taken up! are the following:
"Laws appropriating 4000 pieces of brass artillery, &c.
"Do. appropriating 50,000 sabres, saddles, pistols, &c. &c."

For the rest of his mandate I refer to the Aurora of the 20th instant, and beg leave to add the following, which I presume were accidentally omitted by the colonel:

1st. As we are in future, to have no Navy and the object, no doubt, is to convert the 50,900 cavalry into horse marines, in order to meet the enemy on the only element where they are come-at-able. 200,000 bladders, viz. one for each foot of the cavalry, with 50,000 cork jackets, lest the men might be called to dismount for the assault, as occasion may require.

2d. A committee should be formed to enquire whether second-hand whiskey kegs or hollow pumpkin-shells will form the most economical torpedoes with which it is proposed to cover our coasts and harbors.

3d. A committee to examine the old crust of the Mammoth cheese and to determine whether it will be expedient and economical to form two or more gun-boats thereof.

4th. A committee to shew how much has been saved to the nation by paying off the 42 and 53 per cent. stock at par, in preference to a purchase of six per cents. at the present reduced prices, particularly when the money in the former instance was all sent to Europe, to cure the English of all interested feeling in our favor in any future case of ministerial outrage.

5th. A committee to report satisfactory proof that to hoard the moneys of the nation is better policy than to keep it in continual and brisk circulation even for any purposes. The same committee are also to shew that all national and internal circulations of money are positive expenditures, and that owing to the misbehavior of Europe towards us, we ought to send back all the money, all the men, and every thing else that we have ever borrowed from the other side of the Atlantic, and all this is to be proved to be excellent economy.

6. A committee to shew that it is infinitely better to pay our debts to foreigners in money, than to do the same in acres of our wild lands, as the latter mode would soon convert our excellent hunting grounds into nothing but mere corn field, meadows, &c. &c. till the price of corn and hay would be no object to our farmers, and render our merchants and mechanics too fat and too saucy to bear with.

7. A committee to shew by actual return from all the insurance companies of the Uni ed States that the toll taken in the specie ships from La-vera-Cruz, and in all the British and other adjudications, we have met with no more losses in the amount than is just to indemnify these foreign cruisers for saving us from the horrible, the most abominable expence of guarding our own commerce, as we did in the years 1798 and 1799, and that a respectful address to the foreign commanders on our station, with thanks for the many services already rendered, and a warm desire for their continuance be at least tacitly conveyed by a continuation of our naval economy of the last years.

ECONOMICUS.

Several of the British prints in announcing the arrival of the Revenge, state the exigence of a rumour that the American government had required an answer to their representations within four days, and deduce from this circumstance their pacific temper.—It may be satisfactory to state that this rumour is altogether unfounded. No such demand has been made, nor has any definite time been prescribed for receiving an answer.—It is true that a prompt answer is expected and there can be no doubt, but that if the British ministry wish to maintain a peace between the two countries, a prompt answer will be given.

[National Intelligencer.]

A proclamation from the Danish government has the following important conclusion:

"If the English carry their business so far as to attack our coasts, they will find the same courage and devotion in our citizens, as they experienced in 1801. France, Russia, and all Europe will hasten to our aid."

From the Boston Reflector.

A new idea on the subject of the right of search for the persons of the subjects of a belligerent on board neutral private ships.

Among the numberless strong arguments in favor of the right of a belligerent to take out his own subjects, I have never noticed the following in any publication. I am indebted for it to a learned friend.—It was conclusive to my own mind.—Perhaps the public will so esteem it.

Why is a belligerent authorised by law to enter neutral ships, and to search them for the persons of their enemies, and for their goods?

Answer: Because by the law of nations belligerents have a right to the persons of their enemy taken in war, and also to the goods of an enemy, after they are brought into a place of safety and condemned. A neutral has no right to cover his flag property which a belligerent has a right to attack and capture, and which having captured becomes his own.

It is this possible right of property which is the justification for searching a neutral.

If, then, a belligerent can indisputably, by the law of nations, search a neutral vessel and take out of her, property of a third person, which he did not own, but which he has only a right to acquire, can there be a doubt that he has a right to search and take out his own property which he had acquired before?

If he has a right to search and take out the persons of his enemy over whom he has only a qualified and conditional power, has he not a greater right to search for and take out his own subjects over whose services and lives, he has, as it respects other nations, an absolute dominion and power.

If Mr. Madison instead of writing pages against the British obsolete claim to the honor of the flag in the narrow seas, would answer these simple queries ably, he would prove himself a greater civilian than his pamphlet on the right of search would seem to make him.

ADDITIONAL EVIDENCE.

OF the great efficacy of the Patent and Fam- ily Medicines, prepared by the late Richard Lee, jun. which for near eight years past have acquired throughout the United States a celebrity hitherto unequalled.

Philadelphia, August 9, 1800.

Being desirous to make public for the good of others, the excellent quality of HAMIL-TON'S ELIXIR, prepared by the late Mr.
 Lee, I have sent you the following account of the benefit I have received from it, which I hope will induce others to give it a trial. In consequence of a bruise on the breast received from a fall, my health grew bad; my breathing became very difficult, and frequently I have had suddenly to rise up in my bed with all the horrors of immediate suffocation. Add to these a constant pain in my breast and a cough, a great loss of strength and flesh, and you may conceive that my symptoms evidently indicated an approaching consumption. The advice of a most eminent physician was resorted to, and afterwards a second was consulted, without giving me any relief. Another physician who knew me and the circumstances of my case, advised me to give Hamilton's Elixir a trial, saying, he had used it in his practice, and always found it do much good. A bottle was procured from Mr. Lee's, and I found relief before I had taken one half of it. I continued to use it and was soon strong enough to attend to business. On taking cold, some of my former symptoms return, but are always removed by a dose or two of the Elixir.

JOHN LUTHER, jun.

No. 14, Biddle-street, Philadelphia

Ma H. Lee.

From Luther Martin, Esq. late Attorney-general of the State of Maryland.

I comply with your request in stating my opinion of Hamilton's Elixir. It has been used in my family for two or three years past, with uniform success, whenever colds, coughs, or similar complaints, have rendered medicine necessary. I have myself found it an excellent and agreeable remedy for a very painful and troublesome affection of the breast, accompanied with soreness, and with obstructed and difficult breathing.

On these accounts I do not hesitate to recommend Hamilton's Elixir as a valuable medicine, and deserving public attention.

LUTHER MARTIN.

HAMILTON'S ELIXIR

Is recommended as the best remedy for coughs, colds, asthma, hooping-cough, approaching consumptions, and most disorders of the breast and lungs. This preparation will prove a valuable acquisition to public speakers who may be subject to temporary hoarseness, thickness of speech, &c. In long confirmed Asthmatic complaints where a cure can speedily be expected, this medicine affords immediate relief, moderating the fits of coughing, and rendering their recurrence less frequent. On children afflicted with the hooping cough, the like beneficial effects may confidently be expected.

ITCH CURED.

By once using Lee's Sovereign Ointment, which, although used for 26 years in Europe and for near 8 years in America, has never been known to fail in any one instance. It is perfectly innocent, warranted not to contain a particle of mercury or any pernicious ingredient, and may be used with perfect safety on an infant, being a vegetable preparation and entirely free from the offensive smell which attends most other remedies.

HAMILTON'S LOZENGES,

Which have cured more children and adults of disorders proceeding from worms, than all the medicines heretofore discovered. In addition to the great cures mentioned in the letters from the Chancellor of the state of Maryland, the Rev. Mr. Molthier and others, lately published the following are submitted to the public, being selected for the purpose of shew-ing the mild yet powerful qualities of this extraordinary medicine, which, although so mild in its operation, is competent to expel the formidable tape worm.

An infant, aged 5 weeks, of Mr. Henry Ev-bank, Taylor, Charles-street, Baltimore, was dangerously afflicted with convulsion fits, so that his life was despaired of, but was perfectly cured by one dose of Hamilton's Worm Lo-zenges, which expelled several worms, the undoubted cause of the child's disorder.

Letter from Mr. Ackerman, bricklayer, Magazine street, near Broadway, Jan. 24, 1802.

It would be ungrateful were I to withhold my testimony in favor of Hamilton's Worm Destroying Lozenges. I had been between five and six years past much indisposed, and frequently often tormented with severe griping and pains in the bowels, troubled with offensive breath, with violent feverish fits, and other obvious symptoms of worms; but frequently hearing your Worm Lozenges recommended in cases similar to mine, I determined on a trial of them, as my last resource. The first dose evacuated twelve or 13 feet of a tape worm; two other doses were taken, which brought away a quantity of matter broken like skins and pieces of worms. I suppose the tape worm, voided at different times, must in the whole have exceeded forty feet. The almost incredible benefit I received from this medicine, induced me to give a dose to a child of mine who was pining and sickly: it produced the same good effect in this instance, expelled a worm of a different kind, from nine to twelve inches long, and at the same time restoring a good state of health.

HENRY ACKERMAN.

also,

The following new and valuable Medicine, just received and for sale as above.

(Price, Two Dollars per bottle.)

Dr. Tissot's celebrated Gout and Rheumatic Drops.

NOTHING is of more importance than the preservation of health—this common place remark however is too often forgotten. whilst we are active and strong—and prevention of pain, which is superior to its cure, is not sufficiently attended to by any description of persons. Among those disorders which require the most early and unremitting efforts to eradicate and overcome, none have a stronger claim upon our notice than the Gout, Rheumatism, Lumbago, Weakness of the Joints, Sprains, Cleeps, the Stone and Gravel, the Cramp and every species of Rheumatic Pains from whatever cause they may have originated—and hence every relief which can be administered is too valuable to be forgotten.— Those persons whose avocation peculiarly exposes them to colds, &c. cannot be too anxious always to possess immediate aid. Sea-faring persons, travellers, &c. ought constantly to carry with them that medicine which will counteract the unpleasant effects of their perilous duties, and especially those pains to which their situation must expose them. To those who reside in, or visit the West-Indies, and other warm climates, they will be found upon trial to convey the most lasting service, and will gradually destroy all tendency to disease in the human frame, and preserve vigor. Although a great variety of cures have been published to cures enumerated above, none has the GOUT and RHEUMATIC Dr. TISSOT, which are celebrated out the European continent, and whose bounded benefits are fully authenticated certificates already published of gentlemen well known in America, being of the first sequence in the state of Maryland: Gen-Charles Ridgely, of Hampton; John Gibson, Esq. one of the directors of the Farmers' Ban-of Maryland; John Macculbin, Esq. Mrs. Macculbin, his wife; and Mrs. Ryan, of Calverton.

Certificate of Mr. Thomas Kates, butcher.

About three weeks since I was most violently attacked with Rheumatic pains throughout my whole frame, in so severe a manner as to be able to turn in my bed without assistance proceeding as I suppose from a severe cold on being advised by a friend to apply Dr. Tis-sot's Gout and Rheumatic Drops, I accordingly obtained from the agents Messrs. George Dobbin and Murphy, two bottles, the application of which, under God, have perfectly restored me to health. I am therefore induced with confidence to recommend this medicine as a certain cure for the above disorder.

THOMAS KATES.

Baltimore, July 22d, 1806.

Certificate of Mr. Thomas Campbell, Harnemaker.

It would be an act of injustice to withhold my testimony of the salutary effects of Doctor Tissot's Gout and Rheumatic Drops, as I have experienced a very unequivocal instance of their virtues and efficacy. I was afflicted with two severe attacks of what is usually called Dead Palsy, from which I partially recovered, but was obliged to use crutches to aid me in walking when I left home; to this were joined violent Rheumatic pains, the result of the affliction, and I had feared the disorder would accompany me through life; but providentially was recommended to apply to George Dobbin and Murphy's for Dr. Tissot's Drops, and after using only one bottle, found myself perfectly liberated from my disorder, and am now, thank God, as free from pain as if I never had been afflicted. Finding this medicine operated so powerfully on myself, I determined to apply it internally to my child, a boy only eleven months old, who was then reduced almost to a skeleton with the Bowel Complaint; after administering it four times to him, his complaint was entirely removed, and he is now recovering his strength with great rapidity.
